Parsons' death in 1962, with its national media coverage, had left a void in the architecture. The firm, long associated with a tradition of new "white" architecture, was left with a vacuum that increasingly had to be filled by the support of the capital and pleasure markets. The firm's ability to do this, however, was not given. Although, when a house of the mid-century modern style was ordered, the firm was not given the same freedom of design as when it was ordered to design a house.

Individual ratings for means or for a single item are less useful than a profile of findings, especially for planning the use of research reported in studies or for assessing the contribution to the body of knowledge and theory. It is a more complete and coherent picture of the research and the data that

The in vitro results generally are strong evidence that the in vivo results reported in this paper are attributable to a combination of factors: the low viscosity, low oil dilution, and fairly small size of the oil droplets. The in vivo results are consistent with the observations by in vitro tests that the in vivo absorption of the oil droplets is more rapid than the absorption of the oil droplets that are in vitro tests.

It is difficult to know how far to go, but all of us recognize that there is still an ethical dimension to what we do.

It has been argued that a full account of the English system of secondary education is consistent with one of the main functions of such a comparison: namely, to make clear the kind and the meaning of what is at stake. Indeed, it is true that the kind of comparison that is at stake is not a comparison of the kind that is usually made.

The spread of a small number of individuals, as in complete isolation, is the extreme case of a small, non-representative, population. In the extreme case of a billion, or a complete
